Hagen UK Ladies swap stilettos for trainers as they compete in Race for Life for Life!

The ladies from Hagen, the world's largest privately-owned, multi-national pet products manufacturer and distributor, once again donned their trainers to take part in Race for Life on Sunday 21st July.

The 5k event took place at Pontefract Race Course and, dressed to kill in their burlesque inspired outfits, 10 Hagen ladies ran and walked around the course to raise money for Cancer Research UK.

“This is the seventh year we have taken part in Race for Life and it is a great event to get involved in. Hagen really get behind us and offer us a lot of support and it is a great team event for such a worthy cause,” said Kathryn Glover, Race for Life Team Leader.

Hagen has raised over £800 for the charity which has been organising Race for Life events for 19 years and has made some dramatic progress in finding a cure for Cancer. More than 2,000 women took part in the event on Sunday and first over the line for Hagen was Keira Dransfield in 32 mins!
